

Dr. Manning to Serve Trinity Until Autumn

Announces He Will Remain as Long as Necessary So Vestry May Take Time in Choosing His Successor

Consecration Wednesday

Other Protestant Churches and Eastern Orthodox Bishops Will Participate

The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, who on Wednesday is to be consecrated tenth Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, announced yesterday that he will continue as rector of Trinity Church for several months. The rectorship recently was declined by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Smith Drury, of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., who was elected April 3.

Just before a sermon, preached by the venerable Dr. William Montague Geer, vicar emeritus of St. Paul's Chapel, Dr. Manning stepped to the altar and said:

"It is a great happiness to me to be able to say to you that the event which is to occur this week will not take me away from the present, from the rectorship of Trinity. At the request of the vestry I shall continue to hold this office until autumn and so long as may be necessary, so that the vestry may have all the time it desires to select a successor. I know that you will offer your constant prayers this week for the diocese and for me in the wider field which I have been called to act."

Dr. Geer Pava Tribute

Dr. Geer sketched the work of the Rev. Dr. Manning as rector of Trinity and urged the congregation to follow the leadership he had established.

"While Dr. Manning will remain titular chief of Trinity pending the choice of a successor," said Dr. Geer, "we can today pay tribute to his long record of faithful service, his unswerving steadfastness, his kindly but firm discipline and his gentleness of heart, which has taught us all, clergy and laity, to love him as a leader and as a man of God."

Discussing Dr. Manning's social service, Dr. Geer spoke of what he had done to assist in solving the tenement and housing problems. He referred to Dr. Manning's successful efforts to make free the pews of Trinity as a remarkable event, which, he said, meant that any one had the right to come and worship, no matter if he were of the humblest in the land or socially among the elite.

Consecration To Be Imposing

Arrangements have been completed for the consecration of Dr. Manning next Wednesday morning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The event will be the most imposing religious spectacle seen here in many years. It is expected that ten thousand people will make application for tickets, but only 2,000 can be seated in the Cathedral, it was announced yesterday by Dean Howard C. Robbins, chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Those who do not hold tickets, however, will be able to view the procession which will precede the consecration ceremony and in which will march several hundred bishops and clergymen, vested in cassock, surplice, stole and academic hood, besides lay officials of Trinity and the Cathedral.

At 10:25 a. m. the procession will

Columbia Wants Dyckman Tract for Athletic Field

Land With River Frontage Can Be Bought and Stadium Built for $2,500,000

Provided that funds can be raised within a reasonable time Columbia University, it was announced yesterday, will acquire for a stadium and athletic grounds the property known as the Dyckman tract, bounded by Broadway, 218th Street and the Harlem Ship Canal. The tract has an area of more than twenty-six acres.

The land can be bought and a stadium erected for $2,500,000. Twice this sum would have been needed to build the stadium on the proposed Hudson River site between 118th and 120th streets. A committee composed of representatives of officers, alumni and students of the university, which was appointed March 17 by President Nicholas Murray Butler, has recommended the acquisition of the Dyckman tract. The property is large enough to make provision for a stadium having an area of between twelve and thirteen acres and for several additional playing fields as well as for tennis courts and space for other games. There is ample room for a clubhouse, locker rooms and training quarters. Inasmuch as the property has a long frontage on the Harlem Ship Canal there would be ample space for the bathhouse and for the accommodation of the crews.

The Rev. John D. Calvert, president of the society, and the Rev. Dr. George Sidney Webster, secretary, represented the organization at the service. Dr. Webster said that the work of the society had been carried on throughout the last year with a deficit of only $5,000. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, pastor of the church.

Entry of Joan of Arc Into Orleans Celebrated

Margaret Anglin Participates in Ceremony at Riverside Drive Statue

A celebration in memory of the anniversary of the entrance of Joan of Arc into Orleans was held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by the American and French Children's League at the foot of the Joan of Arc statue, Riverside Drive and Ninety-third Street. Mrs. M. McAllister Smith, state chairman of the league, had charge of the program.

The statue was lit with green, interspersed with red poppies. Margaret Anglin, who was decorated recently by the Jeanne d'Arc Society as a tribute to her presentation of the "Maid of Orleans" on the stage, took part in the ceremony by placing a large wreath of poppies on the statue. Miss Anglin was attended by an escort of young girls from the Professional Children's School, all of whom wore red poppy caps.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise" were sung by those attending the ceremony. Alma Clayburg led in the singing. Mrs. Smith read letters from President Harding, Ambassador Jusserand and Governor Miller. The Rev. A. N. Archibald made the opening prayer in French. Willis Vernon Cole and the Rev. Fred Hovey Allen also took part in the program.

White Carnations Worn as Tributes On Mothers' Day

Preacher Condemns Conditions Under Which Third of Women Must Leave Babies for Work Outside

By the symbol of the white carnation tribute was paid yesterday to the nation's motherhood. In every corner of the city men appeared with flowers in their coat lapels. Mothers' Day was observed in the hospitals and churches. Sermons were preached on motherhood and special musical services held.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, preaching in the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, attacked modern industrial conditions and their effect on the potential mother. His subject was "Mothers' Day."

"The Christian Church should condemn the maudlin sentiment which praises the mother and at the same time permits conditions which blight all chances for happy motherhood in general," said Dr. Sockman. "One of the social conditions most in need of remedy is the employment in industry of one-third of the motherhood of the race."

Motherhood Home Preserver

Dr. Frank M. Goodchild, preaching in the Central Baptist Church, spoke of conditions in the modern home and emphasized that a real mother never forgets her child, and that division in a family is rarely the fault of a mother.

Dr. Goodchild cited historic instances of self-sacrificing mothers, and said that their spirit lived in the mothers of today in spite of unhappy domestic conditions and divided homes. "Unpaid Billis" was the subject of Dr. Frederick Brown Harris's sermon in Grace Methodist Church. The most costly things in life are the things that cannot be paid for, he said. Foremost among them is mother love, which flourishes in spite of the neglect and forgetfulness of the modern child.

Dr. Grant Observes Day

Dr. Percy Stimpney Grant, who took a baby into his home last week and adopted it, spoke on "Mothers" in the Church of the Ascension yesterday morning.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, preaching before the Free Synagogue in Carnegie Hall, chose "Harmonies and Discords of Home" as his subject. He referred to the "deplorable conditions" existing in prominent American homes and enlarged on the benign influence of a wise mother in straightening out the tangles of domestic life.

The Rev. Dr. Harold Pattison preached on "Mothers" at the Washington Heights Baptist Church. "The Blessed Mother of Our Lord" was the subject of the Rev. George E. Pickard's morning sermon in the Metropolitan Methodist Tabernacle.

Plans were launched by the Great Mothers' Memorial Association for a movement to erect in Washington a monument to the American womanhood for her sacrifices during the war.

Gold Medal to Mme. Curie

Institute to Present Token at Annual Dinner, May 19

Mme. Marie Curie, the discoverer of radium, will be presented with the gold medal of the National Institute of Social Sciences at the annual dinner of the organization, May 19, at the Waldorf-Astoria. The scientist will be present to receive the medal and her two daughters also will attend the dinner. Vice-President Coolidge will deliver the presentation address. The following day Mme. Curie will go to Washington to receive a gram of radium from President Harding.

Dr. Charles Frederick Chandler also will receive a gold medal at the dinner for his services in the field of chemistry as applied to sanitation. So will Cleveland H. Dodge in recognition of his services to the cause of education and philanthropy. Others who will be honored with medals are Edward W. Dorr, grand master of the United States Grand Lodge, Order of British Abraham, in a message delivered to members of the order at their annual convention here last week.

The message declared it was "amazing that in this country, where our national boast is civil and religious liberty, there should be persons engaged in the work of spreading the poison of anti-Semitism."

Attacks upon the Jewish race made within the United States, the grand master said, were "most barefaced and shameful falsehoods born mostly of bigotry and racial hatred, and are the outgrowth of ignorance."

Ethical Society Celebrates

Dr. Adler Speaks at 45th Anniversary Meeting

Dr. Felix Adler, senior leader and founder of the Society for Ethical Culture, spoke at the 45th anniversary meeting of the New York Society for Ethical Culture, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria, last night.

He told the members he did not desire to make the ethical movement world-wide, but wanted to have it develop the deepest and truest things in human nature. He said he preferred to see the ethical culture movement progress slowly and deeply, rather than to spread like wildfire. He characterized the society as "a company of souls, assisting and encouraging one another in their ascension from the lower to the higher spiritual levels."

Blind Salesgirl Succeeds

A large department store in Boston has employed as a salesgirl a young woman who is totally blind. If the experiment proves successful it will probably be the means of extending tremendously the present restricted field of employment for the blind. At the end of the first two weeks the store management reported that the work of the blind salesgirl was up to the average standard of new employees.

James W. Perry, Lawyer, Dies at Plainfield Home

Was Direct Descendant of Famous Commodore and Associate of President Arthur

PLAINFIELD, N. J., May 8.—James W. Perry, a direct descendant of Commodore Perry and a lawyer formerly associated in practice with the late President Chester A. Arthur, died at his home here today. Mr. Perry was born in New York City seventy-three years ago and was a graduate of Brown University and Columbia. He was an intimate friend of the late President Roosevelt and also an associate of the late President Garfield.

Mr. Perry was the Republican nominee for Congress in the 13th Congressional District in 1898, running against John Sabine Smith, whom he defeated. His early life was spent in Williamsburg, where he attended the old Wilson Street public school. He moved to New York with his parents in 1862 and attended the Forty-seventh Street Public School. He prepared for college at the English and Classical Academy of Providence and entered Brown University in 1870, where he received his degree.

After leaving college he studied law, taking a course at the Columbia Law School, from which he was admitted to the bar in 1875.

Mr. Perry associated himself with the law firm of Knevels, which was headed by the late Benjamin K. Phelps, once District Attorney, and Rastus S. Ransom, formerly Surrogate.

He was a member of the Union League, Racquet, Lawyers' and Plainfield Country clubs. He is survived by his wife.

Women Discuss National Civic Foundation To-day

Move to Co-ordinate Work Throughout Country

Women prominent in civic affairs and women's club work will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Francis Burrill Helm, 133 East Seventy-ninth Street, to discuss plans for the establishment of the Women's National Civic Foundation.

The step is being urged for the purpose of coordinating the work of the various organizations in the country. The movement is headed by Mrs. C. C. Calhoun of Washington.

The headquarters of the foundation will be located at Washington, where a building is to be erected on a tract at Sixteenth Street and Connecticut Avenue. The tentative plans call for a theater, a club assembly room and various executive quarters. Estimated the building scheme will call for an expenditure of $1,000,000.

This afternoon's meeting will be attended by representatives of various organizations intended to become a part of the foundation.
